Last night, King's Group was proclaimed the winner of the “Private Education group of the year” at the Education Investor Awards, held in Hilton Park Lane London. Organised by the leading education magazine Education Investor Global, these awards are presented to organisations and individuals that have made an outstanding contribution to education in 2017-18. These awards have been held for almost a decade, with the aim to promote excellence and recognise innovation in the private education sector.

This year, King's Group was nominated in three categories: “Private Education group of the year”, “Education Business of the year” and “Exporting excellence” – the last two being included in the “Grand Prix” section.

Within the category of “Private Education group of the year”, King's Group had strong competitors such as Oxford International Education Group, Regent College Higher Education and Outcome First Group.

“We are honoured to have received this outstanding recognition. To be awarded the Private Education Group of the Year caps an excellent year for our Group. In the past 12 months we have opened three new schools in Spain, Germany and Latvia and now this award is proof of the excellence of our team and the work we are doing.”, said Nicholas Fry, Vice Chairman of King’s Group.
